MANTRA MAGIC

By; Bishop Tamadhi Hill, N.D.

A mantra is the sounding of a word to create a specific effect, and this can be done either audibly or inaudibly, however one generally receives a more powerful effect when the mantra is sounded audibly.

Most mantras have a visualization; for those that do, it is important to hold the image in front of you mentally as you are sounding the mantra. For those of you who have trouble with visualization, just know and will the image to be there and it will be so, even though you don't see it, it will be there. After working with this method for a period of time, you will gradually see the image come into focus. Be patient, and do not get down on yourself if you have trouble "seeing." for some, this comes quickly and easily, while with others, it takes a little longer.

When a mantra has no visualization, simply sound it and know that the power of your own soul, along with the mantra, working together, will achieve the correct results which will be of most benefit to you. Trust that and allow it to be. Repetition is important, for the more a mantra is worked with, the more powerful it becomes; thereby, achieving the desired results.

When sounding a mantra it does not need to be done loudly; however, the voice should be deep, bringing the sound all the way up from the diaphragm. Simply sit quietly and relaxed with the eyes closed. Take a few deep breaths, see the visualization in front of you and sound the mantra. Let your own intuition guide you as to how many times this should be done.

There are those who enjoy a mantra session twice a day; shortly after arising in the morning and again prior to bedtime. Play with it for awhile and see what works best for you. Everyone is different, and what works best for one may not necessarily be correct for another.

When not able to audibly sound a mantra, go ahead and work with it inaudibly, for therein is power, too. Many use this method for clearing clutter from the mind, bringing forth mental clarity and stillness of the mind.

"Mantra Magic" is indeed a powerful and easy tool to work with which appeals to many. Try it out, play with it and have fun; if the shoe fits, fine, keep it and wear it, if not throw it out; in either case, you will have gained the definition, knowledge and wisdom of "Mantra Magic."

When The Spiritist Religion is reestablished on Earth, one of the hardest duties of the Church's Leader shall be their responsibility of removing from history the names of persons who have committed crimes against humanity. What they did will still be recorded in history but their names and all likenesses of them shall be obliterated from all written and other means of recorded storage.

In some lands even the bodies of those who committed atrocities may be removed and disposed of and all monuments to them destroyed or re-dedicated.

You ask why such a thing would be done. The answer is simple- many made themselves notorious, did acts of evil to insure their place in history, believing that such demonstrations of their power would forever keep their place in history. But The Lords long determined that such must not happen, that those who serve Their people with honor and distinction should be remembered, but those who betray Their trust, who abuse and misuse Their people, their names should never be spoken, should never be praised. For to call upon them, to speak their name is to keep evil alive.

How would this process be carried out? It is simple, really. Any member of The Church may present a petition to the Church Leader, asking that a person's name be removed, stating their reasons why this should be done. If the Leader agrees to hear the case, a notice that that person is to be judged shall be put in the Church's publications, and a date set for the hearings. At that time those wishing the person removed can present their evidence, and those opposing their removal may be heard. Then the Leader will make the decision and send out the notification. On rare occasions when the crimes of a person are so well known, the Speaker may declare the debate unnecessary, and grant an immediate order of removal.

What are some crimes that will justify removal? The first is murder. Any person convicted of murder or conspiracy in murder is automatically removed. Treason, religious persecution, theft of sacred funds (Church funds or taxes) perjury that results in a sentence of death, these are the crimes for which a person's name might be removed from The Records Of The Blessed, crimes against the heart of the people.

May it be that none of you ever fall under such circumstances!

THE SPIRITS SPEAK

This is an interview with the Spirit of Anastasia Romanov, daughter of the Tsar of Russia, who was supposedly executed in 1918, but several sources say she survived to marry an American becoming Anastasia Manahan. The Questions were provided by Rev. Speaker Linda J. Polley, and the answers are channeled by Rev. Speaker Gerald A. Polley.

1. Are you and Anna Anderson-Manahan the same person?

A. Sometimes even I wondered. But if I weren't I had a deep psychological problem.

2. How did you escape from Russia?

A. When my family was captured we were separated. Our parents were put in the charge of one officer and each of us children were taken by another. The officer that had me believed there was gold hidden in the palace, and day after day took me from room to room. One day he took me into a bedroom and raped me. He must've liked it because he continued doing it on a regular basis. When the order came that my family was to be shot, he bribed the officer in charge and found another dead girl to replace my body, dressed her in my clothes and shot her. Peasants, not knowing the difference, bribed the officers for the bodies and buried them in their cemetery under different names. After that I was passed from man to man until, sick of living that way, I tried to take my life.

3. Why did you agree to this interview?

A. Because I wanted to set things straight, and let people know what really happened. Truth, and what is written in the history books, can be so far from each other as to be absurd.

4. What happened to your brothers and sisters?

A. Their fates in the beginning, were identical to mine. Each was bought by a corrupt officer for their own reasons. Olga died of starvation with the villagers, who eventually befriended her. Tatiana was killed in an uprising...accidentally shot by one of the local people. Marie died of old age in her late 90s. My brother Alexis was eventually rescued by an officer who had recently lost his son in the fighting. The two boys looked so much alike that my brother took the young man's identity and lived until World War 2, when he was killed in battle. It is ironic the communists proclaimed him a hero, having no idea who he was! His descendants still live in Russia today, some holding high office. We consider it somewhat humorous.

5. What were your feelings toward your father because he let your mother take over the throne, then abdicated?

A. Oh, I paid no attention to that nonsense! We simply didn't care. We always loved and respected our father. To us that was all he was.

6. Do you like being so famous and having such a mystery surrounding you?"

A. Didn't somebody once write "Leave 'em guessing?" I profited from the mystery surrounding me. Actually I took advantage of it. I could've easily proven who I was, but I enjoyed the game. Several of my relatives knew who I was, but wouldn't admit it for their own reasons.

(Cont'd Top, Next Column)

7. What do you feel about Lenin now?

A. Well, truthfully, I rather like him! I wish his people in Russia had gotten the biography you wrote for him. I found it delightful. I think if he had not told so much about your people it would've been better accepted. But foolish people do not want the truth. It is a sad thing.

8. Who was Alexander Tschaikovsky?

A. Never heard of him! Maybe this is the mispronunciation of someone else. I don't even remember the name of the officer that first bought me.

9. What do you do now in The Spirit World?

A. Well, actually I'm not in The Spirit World. I'm in a nice little place in Northern Spain, but that's all I'll say. Don't want the tourists to come looking for me.

10. Will you be able to answer more questions later?

A. Oh, why not? It's fun!

* * *

Our next interview will be with the Spirit of Cecil B. DeMille, one of America's most famous film directors of all time. Your questions for him are welcome. Feel free also to send in questions for Spirits previously interviewed. For a list of these kindly send return postage.

SHED NO BLOOD

By; Rev. Speaker Gerald A. Polley

Recently The Supreme Court made a very bad decision, saying that a city in Florida could not ban animal sacrifices as part of religious celebrations. Any religion that practices the shedding of blood is a part of the Dark Forces. The Bearers Of Light never demanded blood and the taking of an innocent animal's life cannot bring one good fortune, or cure their physical or mental ills.

In reality the reverse is true. Taking life without just cause, even animal life, burdens the individual's Soul. Ritual sacrifice aids the practitioner in no way whatsoever, and is something that should be discouraged by every religious body. Those committing such sacrifices should be warned that they are hurting themselves, not helping themselves, and should stop such practices. No Bearer Of Light will help anyone who sheds innocent blood. Only Dark Ones answer such prayers, and the price for their services is too much to pay.

SUPPORT PUBLIC TELEVISION & RADIO!

We've been doing alot of radio interviews across the country because of our Babe Ruth interview. If you have a talk show in your area give your local DJ a call and let him know you'd like to hear us.

Because of these interviews we have something sad to report. One announcer asked for an interview with the rock guitarist Jimi Hendrix so one of my agents in The Spirit Realm went looking for him, and found him in a hospital, where he sits by the window all day and night, singing all of his songs over and over again, one after another. When interrupted he'll turn to the person speaking to him and say "The music's everything, man, it's the whole universe, from beginning to end. I'm waiting for Bobby. Bobby promised he'd come. Have you seen Bobby?"

With this he would turn his head back to the window and begin to sing again. The doctors say the condition is caused by the LSD he took in his lifetime. It's caused his Soul to loop back upon itself, constantly feeding the same impulse from that lifetime through its essence like an endless, repeating record. They say there's no telling how long the condition may last. He may snap out of it tomorrow or a hundred years from now, or perhaps never. He may spend the rest of eternity sitting by that window, singing to himself, again and again. What a terrible price they pay for their moments of escape into a drug altered mind.

THEY'RE TURNIN' GOLD TO COAL

By; Rev. Speaker Linda J. Polley

They're turnin' gold to coal, doesn't everybody know what they're doing to their Souls?
The good vibrations off you roll, and The Darkness takes its toll,
they're turnin' gold to coal.

The aura is a treasure
that's only yours to gain,
So guard against all evil
and gold it will remain.
But heed unto The Darkness and it will fill your Soul.
They're turnin' gold to coal.

Keep evil from your life;
and you will never fail
to keep your aura shining, and protect it from the night,
keep on your proper Path and keep your aura bright.
Help others see the wrong they do and guide them to The Light, you'll see your Spirit glowin',
and your future a beautiful sight,
Knowin' wrong from right,
You won't be turnin' gold to coal!

SYSTEM DRIVE

By; Rev. Speaker Gerald A. Polley

As I have before mentioned, Our People used three types of drive in Their space ships. The one I will concentrate on today is system drive, the first engines Our People developed that exceeded the speed of light. These were nuclear in operation, actually resembling open nuclear hydrogen reactors. A continuous nuclear reaction was used to provide the energy for a continuing series of hydrogen fusion explosions. These explosions were directed down accelerator tubes which caused them to exceed the speed of light, and rip the fabric of space behind the ship. The engines did not actually provide thrust, not in the true sense of the word. By ripping the fabric of space behind the ship they caused the space in front of the ship to flow around it, to close the rip in space it had created. This caused a vacuum in space, that literally sucked the ship forward. The more you ripped space, the greater the suction and the faster you went.

Our Peoples' earliest ships could only go two or three times faster than the speed of light, or, L. The most advanced versions reached a speed of fifty times the speed of light. But this seemed to be the limit for this type of propulsion.

One of the strangest aspects of this type of propulsion was that when it was shut down, the ship's forward speed would quickly disappear and it would soon become motionless, until it was reacted on by the nearest gravitational force. This is another reason why a second engine was needed to get a spaceship to and away from planets. But system drive, as we called it, gave our people Their solar system. It made traveling back and forth between planets as easy as flying across oceans, and sometimes considerably more comfortable.

It is very hard to put ancient thought into modern terms, especially when that thought originated from an alien race far different from mankind. Where humans fight only for their own interest, or the interest of their own nation, others fought for very different reasons. One example of this is an old Hashon saying that was often posted in military barracks. It read, "To die for one's own freedom is good, to die for your family's freedom is honorable, to die for your nation's freedom is courageous, but to die for the freedom of a stranger- that is glorious!"

This was a simple little saying that the majority of Hashons well understood and lived by. But how many human beings can even begin to comprehend its meaning? For the majority of them it is beyond their comprehension.

IS THE APOCALYPSE COMING?

By; Rev. Speaker Gerald A. Polley

David Koresh controlled his followers by using the teachings of the Apocalypse in the Book of Revelation, the belief by some Christians that the world is coming to an end by a series of horrendous disasters that will wipe out all of mankind but for a few chosen followers of God. Is there any truth to the idea? We would give a resounding "NO!"

It is true the Christian era is coming to an end, but this, by no means, signals the end of the world. Other religions will rise to fill the void of the declining Judeo-Christian era. It is not to say that the Teachings of these religions will pass away completely. They will return to the true purpose for which Their Teachers gave them, and the corrupt versions created by man to serve their own greed will pass away.

To many Christians this, in itself, will be a horrendous Earth destroying catastrophe, but to others it will be an Awakening Time, and the beginning of a glorious New Age. So don't be taken in by those who claim the end is coming.

If there is going to be no Apocalypse, where did this legend originate?

After the destruction of our colonies on Earth the surviving Goddens began to teach their people that members of the other colonies that we had left behind on our way to Earth would some day arrive and reek a terrible havoc on those that dared oppose the Almighty God. Their description of the terrible destruction caused by our weapons and of our terrible aircraft and tanks got distorted over the ages into the terrible devastations, and creatures of The Seven Seals, and other prophecies of Revelation.

As these great disasters have not already happened it can only be surmised that the other colonies we left behind suffered the same fate as those on Earth, and that those the Goddens were expecting will never arrive.

A lot of talk is heard about The New Age. Well, in reality there IS no New Age. The era we are now passing through SHOULD be called The Age Of Awakening, not The New Age. For it is the time of The Arising, of The Awakening of The Sleepers in every ethnic group. It is not the time of newness, but the time of renewing, of returning to old and better ways, forgotten and even despised by the modern world.

I often feel sorry for people who get their relatives out of legal jams in this world, thinking they are doing them a favor. How sad it is to realize that they are not. Oftentimes they are only compounding their loved one's problems when they leave this world and journey on to the Next, where all debts will be paid in full.

How good the rich con man feels when he hires an expensive lawyer who, with trickery and deceit, helps him escape justice in this world. But in the World To Come, where all Truth is known, where every act anyone has committed is written for all to see on their own Souls, there are no smart lawyers, no legal cleverness that can keep a person from paying their bill in full. Many wail "It's not my fault, nobody told me," only to be reminded MANY told them what was right and what was wrong. They merely didn't want to hear. Be among Those WHO Hear. It will be a far, far better Eternity if you are.

HASHON STANDARD TIME

By; Rev. Speaker Gerald A. Polley

When The Church Of The Lords is reestablished on Earth we will begin to again use Hashon Time for all dates on religious documents. Our day will have twenty hours and each hour will be divided into 100 minutes. Each week will have five days, and each year shall have twenty months.

We are currently living in The 109,354th Year From The Beginning Of The Spiritist Faith. We do not have the facilities at the present to calculate the exact time, but when our time is reestablished it will be different from the way it is commonly used on Earth. Under The Hashon System it is always the same time everywhere. There is no International Dateline, or time zones. Factories started up and shut down on the local day/night cycle. Time was not changed to fit the localities, as it is done on Earth.

But why would we use such a time system? The answer is simple- Tradition. When we had our colonies on Earth we used Hashon Time. Wherever our ships went in space we used Hashon Time. Anywhere in the vast Republic everything was recorded by the same time schedule.

As Earth is not truly our home, as we are only visitors here, Earth time is not our time. Our Souls are not related to it. And as we awaken, we must return to our own time, to The Ways Of Our Ancestors. For Those are the Ways that belong to us.

NOTE: 'Hashon' is pronounced with a long 'a' and a short o which sounds like a 'u.' Like HAY-shun, or, Haitian.

WHAT IS THE KEENING CIRCLE?

By: Branwen Heartfire

Thank you for asking about our keening circle. Keening means wailing or crying in Irish. In olden days, the women of the Celts cried out for the dead. The women performed the weeping and wailing while the whole community listened. This was a service they did for the whole community.

We are retrieving this old ceremony and making it available to all people. We do this on an ongoing basis and for some of us, we accept this as a lifelong service. We don't intend to ever stop.

Celebrations, pictures, showers, gifts all attend the arrival of a baby into this world. But when that precious one departs, a lot of pain and grief is unspoken and unexpressed. We feel that this open expression of pain and grief is needed now more than ever. We know it's hard for some people to express grief in this culture- especially men.

With HIV touching us all, we want to especially extend this offer to those who have lost people they love in this way. There needs to be more loving regard to those who face HIV.

To have a loved one keened for by our circle, simply send us their name. We call out every name and then cry for them all. This can be done once or on an ongoing basis if you like. Just let us know. We can be contacted through our Post Office Box; Well Earth Grove, A.D.F., P.O. Box 602696, Cleveland, OH 44102.

In loving service to you all, Branwen Heartfire, Senior Druid, Well Earth Grove, A.D.F..

INSECT STINGS & SPIDER BITES

By; Jackie Ramirez

With the picnicing and the outdoor activities at this time of the year we need to think in terms of prevention before we get out there in the wilds. Preventing the sting may be impossible but we can prevent a dire reaction in some hyper-sensitive people by taking massive doses of ascorbic acid. Some allergists will advise you of this in fact and also tell you that if you are hyper-sensitive to always carry an adrenalin kit with you on your outings.

For prevention purposes it's advised that the whole C complex family that are known as bioflavonoids (ascorbic acid is only one factor of this family) are indicated as they strengthen cell permeability to help immunize the whole body from various allergies including a reaction to insect stings and spider bites. By taking bioflavonoids on a regular basis and well in advance of your outing may well build up an immunity to the point you will experience no ill effects from the insects and spiders.

Several here who have taken this advice, including myself have no problem with even mosquitoes!

You may still be able to find the book "Linda Clark's Handbook of Natural Remedies For Common Ailments" from which the above information came. This book was published in 1916.

THE DEATH OF A NIGHTMARE

By; Rev. Speaker Gerald A. Polley

THE ANCIENT ONE WAS DRAINED OF EMOTION, but still he was bothered by some of the things he was forced to do by evil men. The tears of mothers for their children always disturbed him, as to his kind children were the most precious thing of all.

Those gathered in this house were grieving for their children, though death had not taken them. Suddenly a car pulled up outside. One of the men looked out the window and announced, "Grandfather is here."

Without a word of instruction the women rose and departed out a side door. A few moments later the two main doors into the room slid open. Two husky men entered, looked around, then stepped aside to let an old, feeble-looking man pass.

"Heinrich!" the old man cried, "I came as quick as I could. What happened? I was told on the way the children at the school are sick. How? Why?"

One of the younger men came forward and embraced the older man. When he pulled away he began to speak.

"They've been poisoned, grandfather. Toxic waste. It was sprayed on the grass at the school. They absorbed it through their skin when they sat on the grass. No one realized what was wrong until they all got sick; all but two of them who were away...all our special ones, all our chosen ones except two."

"Now," the older man asked, "how could it happen?"

"The authorities aren't sure," another man said, "they think the company may have been getting rid of toxic waste by mixing it with diesel fuel and heating fuel, and somehow a shipment got mixed up and they put it in the fertilizer by mistake. They're trying to track it down; some company called Midwest Fuel Distributors."

A look of horror came over the old man's face. "Will the children live?" he asked.

All the men present looked downcast. The one who had spoken first answered. "Yes, grandfather but the chemicals attack the reproductive organs. They'll be sterile," the man swallowed, "and, retarded," he finished. He stepped to a nearby table, picked up his drink, and took a deep swallow. "All our work," he continued, "years of work, careful selection, planning... all destroyed. It will take us years to select new students, to begin again."

The old man nodded. "Then we must begin immediately," he announced. "The plan of the Aryan Nation must not fail. The positions they were supposed to hold must be filled by those loyal to The Party. I know it will be difficult, gentlemen, in this time of our grief, but we must be about our work, now. Go start checking our records. More students must be selected immediately and a new site chosen for the school."

The other men nodded and headed off. The older man looked to his escort and motioned them away. They stopped outside the room, closing the door behind them. The old man walked over to the phone, picked it up and dialed a number. "Give me Bricksmire!" he snapped. He waited a few moments then continued. "Bricksmire, somebody made a tragic mistake at the distribution center, one for the management staff. I don't care how, just make it look like an accident and don't leave any records."

The Ancient One materialized using a form he had not worn for many years...the uniform of a World War Two German soldier made him look somehow more formidable than his other forms.

"Good evening, Reich Docktor Kimmer," The Ancient One snapped. "It's been many years. They'll still find out, you know. They'll have to cover it up to protect the movement but they'll know it was one of their own money-making schemes that destroyed their children."

The bewildered old man turned slowly, staring at his visitor. A look of recognition suddenly crossed his face. "Heinrich!" he cried, "Joseph Heinrich! It has been a long time, indeed!" But then a look of bewilderment filled his eyes. "But you're dead, Heinrich! The SS killed you. You were in the plot to assassinate The Fuehrer."

The Ancient One laughed. "If I had been," he announced, "the Fuehrer would have died. No, Herr Doctor, that was just a ploy to get rid of me. I just wanted to tell you, doctor, that it was I who switched the filling hoses. I'm sorry about the children, but we couldn't let your little plot reach its conclusion. You made them into weapons, instruments to continue that sickness that should have died years ago."

"You?" the older man cursed. "Who are you? Who are you to judge The Master Race?"

"Something far better than you'll ever be!" The Ancient One answered. "I've brought along some friends, Herr Doctor, friends who have wanted to be united with you for some time. You may remember them...your guests in barracks twenty-nine."

The Ancient One waved his hand and several dozen people in concentration camp uniforms appeared in the room. They began to slowly advance on the old man who put his hand to his chest. "NO!" he cried, "No! Keep them away!" He gasped and fell to his knees, shook for a few moments, then something hideous and twisted rose from his body. The prisoners gathered around it, and as it screamed and kicked they dragged it through a dark passage that closed behind them. "Pleasant journey, herr doctor!" The Ancient One whispered as he, himself, faded into nothingness, "Pleasant journey!"
